ShiftFX Reviewed by Sport Rider

SPORT RIDER

For those of you flipping through the pages of Sport Rider Magazines November issue you may have come across an interesting article on page 36. Biperformance's very own ShiftFX received a full page review and the news is in: "ShiftFX actually manages to enhance both convenience and performance". Written by the well-respected industry journalist, Charles Everitt, the article was the result of a day long test season this summer in LA. Compared against Yamaha's version of semi-automatic shifting, YCC-S, ShiftFX came out on top. Quoting the article: "ShiftFX works surprisingly well, exhibiting a precision that speaks of endless hours of testing and development. This is no crude attempt at push-button shifting-you can't help being impressed with how smooth and refined the ShiftFX system operates." With press like this, just image what people will say when our OEM version of ShiftFX is released to the public!

Web Developments

Welcome to Biperformance

Following the successful launch of biperotech.com, Biperformance is working on improving its aftermarket products website. The new site will share the same clean design as our OEM site, using html for improved navigation and better web search results. Updated product information plus an expanded image gallery will be added to keep our customers happily clicking away.
